

Information Management·Calling | Have a tea party with Professor Simon Mahony of University College London and talk about digital humanities!

Trade Winds April 12, 2024 10:04

The Department of Information Management at Peking University specially invited Professor Simon Mahony, an internationally renowned expert in the field of digital humanities, to discuss with us topics such as digital humanities research and related academic development plans.

Whether you are passionate about digital humanities research, are exploring your own academic direction, or are confused about your personal academic and career development, you are welcome to join us and have a face-to-face exchange with Professor Simon Mahony at the tea party. You will have an in-depth understanding of his latest research progress in the field of digital humanities, his observations and thoughts on education, interdisciplinary professional learning and further studies, and you will have the opportunity to obtain valuable suggestions for your academic planning.

This event is a rare opportunity. Come and sign up to enjoy this feast of knowledge and ideas. Students who actively interact will have the opportunity to win a beautiful gift!

Event Information

Guest : Simon Mahony, PhD Supervisor, Honorary Professor of Digital Humanities, Department of Information, University College London, Visiting Professor of Information Management, Peking University. Member of the Education and Research Subcommittee of the UNESCO Memory of the World Project, Fellow of the Royal Historical Society, Associate Research Fellow of the Classical Institute, University of London Institute for Advanced Study, Fellow of King's College London, Consultant and Editorial Board Member of many journals and research groups. His research focuses on digital humanities, with a particular focus on education, communication, information research, equality, diversity, inclusion and open agenda.

Moderator : Yan Pu, Assistant Professor of Information Management Department of Peking University, PhD in Information, Communication and Society from Oxford Internet Institute, engaged in research in computational sociology and new media.

Activity type: Tea party

Time: April 17 (Wednesday) 15:00-16:00

Location: Classroom 414, Fang Libang Qin Building

language: English

Quickly scan the following QR code or click "Read original text" to fill out the registration questionnaire, join the corresponding group chat, and participate in this tea party!

Written by: Zhao Songle

Editor: Shi Tianyu

Reviewer: Zhang Mengyi

Read more

